

13. Using the `getAttribute` will do which of the following?
 - a. Return the value of the attribute.
 - b. Print a list of data.
 - c. Load a new HTML page.
 - d. None of these.
14. Which function converts HTML tags into their entities versions?
 - a. `strlen`
 - b. `htmlentities`
 - c. `explode`
 - d. `getAttribute`
15. Which is a commonly used function to find the length of a string?
 - a. `strlen`
 - b. `getLength`
 - c. String concatenation
 - d. `__toString`

True/False

1. The `count` function returns the number of elements in an array.
2. When using an array, the index must not exceed the size of the array.
3. A subscript is the name given to position where the item currently exists in the array and is usually contained in `[]`.
4. A private function is an event in PHP to network for a job.
5. One purpose of `exit` is to end the program.
6. The `getElementsByTagName` searches for occurrences that correspond to a specific XML tag.
7. `get_declared_classes` returns an array of all classes that currently exist in a program in order from first to last.
8. Dependency injection allows the program client to enter a block of code to know the implementation of the block of code it will be using.