

2. Adjust the AJAX example in this chapter (the code is available on the book's web site) to display a mini version of your resume.
3. Adjust the Hello World (Example 2-6, `callmyself.php`) program to display your college/university name, address, and main phone number.

Term Project

1. Using the information you have determined from the Chapter 1 Term Project assignment and the design techniques shown in this chapter, develop a logical design of the ABC Computer Parts Inventory application. This design should include all possible programs, interfaces, and data storage. The application design must be three-tier (interface, business rules, and data). Your final design should look similar to the examples shown in this chapter.